No school-issue condoms for at least 2 to 3 years

During one recent two-month period, 3 of the 8 deaths recorded in Bethel were AIDS related. None of the 3 was a hemophiliac.

By WENDY HANSCOM

The SAD44 School Board voted Monday night to wait two or three years before deciding whether condoms can be distributed at Telstar high and middle schools.

The board made the decision despite the results of a recent survey that indicated 94 percent of high and middle school students thought condoms should be available to high school students.

The board, however, opted instead to go with the recommendation of an ad hoc committee, which concluded that a health curriculum was a higher priority and should be firmly established before condom distribution is approved or rejected outright.

"Any school system (currently) passing out condoms or making them available has a health curriculum in place," said Andover Director Brad Thibodeau. "I think we've been advised by legal council to wait. When we have a curriculum in place, we can take a look at it. I would like to see us do it now, but I don't think we can."

School nurse and ad hoc committee member Chris Cole agreed.

"I think we need to furnish them with education first--give them the problem-solving techniques," Cole said, "and see how it works with the students. Then revisit this issue in two or three years."

Woodstock Director Marcel Polak said he was concerned about what could happen to students in the meantime.

"What's going to happen in the next two or three years?" Polak said. "Are we going to lose students to pregnancy or sexually trans-

THE WORKING FOREST--Evans Notch Assistant District Ranger Wayne Millen (third from left) explains the on-the-ground workings of a local timber sale for a group of journalists and U.S. Forest Service personnel from other districts in the White Mountain National Forest. The log landing show here is part of the Dew Drop Brook timber sale, located on a 300-acre site near the Wild River. Millen discussed the many considerations involved in developing a timber sale proposal, including the difficulties faced by the Forest Service in attempting to balance the numerous, occasionally conflicting, resource concerns and regulations governing such sales. For example, he noted, in the case of the Dew Drop Brook sale, even small clearcuts were ruled out, because the New Hampshire Wilderness Act requires that none of the timber harvesting activities leave disturbances that are visible from the Appalachian Trail.

Cross St. project

Report due out Monday

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The proposed Victoria Station development project on Cross Street will face a major milestone Monday, when the Cross Street Advisory Committee is scheduled to make its report to the town selectmen.

The committee wasn't due to wrap up its work until last night (Tuesday), but early indications point to a favorable recommendation for the project.

"It looks like a major win-win for all parties," said committee member Merton Brown.

The town has more leverage in this case than in most development proposals, because a key parcel of land required for the project is currently owned by the town.

The ad hoc committee was formed by the selectmen to study the potential impact of the project on the town, and to explore the town's options for the various financial maneuvers that will follow from it.

The committee's report looks at such matters as job creation, public improvements funding, impact on town culture and Main Street, effect on taxes and services, water and sewerage.

The report also looks at options for relocating the facilities currently located on the town-owned parcel. The preferred options appear to be: moving the ambulance garage to the Bethel Area Health Center, moving the town garage to lots at the Col. Dyke Airport (where new buildings, including a salt/sand shed, would be built at the developers' expense), and moving the recycling center to the town's water pollution control facility.

Monday evening's selectmen's meeting is open to the public. If the selectmen recommend that the town sell its parcel, a public hearing and special Town Meeting will follow.

If all goes smoothly, the special Town Meeting could be held early next month.

U.S. Forest Service:

'Local national forest is in sound shape'

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The White Mountain National Forest is in sound shape and for the most part is meeting the expectations of the Forest Plan adopted in 1986--according to a monitoring report compiled by the U.S. Forest Service. The Forest Service manages the country's 154 national forests, including the 777,000-acre WMNF.

The monitoring report finds the WMNF's vegetation, wildlife, and water quality all in good shape, but it notes that the forest is falling short of its timber sales quotas, largely because of budget constraints.

Public objections to clearcuts have also reduced the forest's ability to accommodate those wildlife species that require the type of forest habitat in the "regenerative" or "young" stages of forest growth--the stages present following a clearcut.

The report also notes that the public is now making increased use of the WMNF. Recreational visits have increased sharply, putting pressure on forest facilities such as camping grounds. And alpine skier days, on lands leased in the national forest, are up 21 percent since 1986.

But overall, said Forest Supervisor Rick Cables in his summary of the report, management activities in the WMNF have had positive and predictable results.

"If you have been spending time poking around the notches, ridges, and valleys of the mountains," Cables wrote, "I believe you will agree that all of the basic indicators of forest ecosystem health are positive. Vegetation is generally healthy; there are no indications of a decrease in long term soil productivity; water quality is excellent. Our wildlife monitoring indicates that current wildlife populations are healthy and viable. We are proud of our dedicated staff and many cooperators who do a magnificent job helping us to care for the land and serve people."

The monitoring report is a requirement of the 1986 Forest Plan, the document which is intended to guide management activities in the WMNF. Edited excerpts of the report summary appear on page 3 of this week's Citizen. Complete copies of the summary and the 130-page monitoring report are available at the Evans Notch District Office in Bethel, and at other WMNF offices.

Upton road-jobs dispute flares to threats of violence

Cynthia Scribner also threatened to 'tear out (Lewitt's one) good eye' and screamed that she would 'see him blind,' according to the affidavit.

CLAYTON TOMPSON
Upton Town Clerk and father of Cynthia Scribner

By JENNIFER SULLIVAN and WENDY HANSCOM

An Upton couple have been accused of threatening to kill town officials in a dispute over road maintenance jobs.

Jeffrey and Cynthia Scribner of Upton are scheduled to appear in court later this month to face charges of terrorizing present and former Upton officials, according to an affidavit filed by Oxford County Sheriff's Office Sgt. Timothy Holland.

The Scribners were arrested on Oct. 22 by the OCSO, after Selectman Constance Gagnon reported being threatened by the couple on Oct. 19. They face one charge each of terrorizing. Approximately a dozen guns were seized at the time of the arrest, Holland said.

The couple is scheduled to appear in 11th District Court in Rumford on Nov. 23. The Scribners posted bail at the Oxford County Jail on the day of their arrest. A condition of their release is that the couple have no contact with anyone named in Holland's affidavit, the Sargent said.

Cynthia Scribner, 31, told The Citizen last week she and her husband will plead innocent to the charges.

"It's all a big setup," she said. Her father, Town Clerk Clayton Thompson agreed.

"All of this is dirty, rotten, stinking town politics," Thompson said. On the advice of her attorney, James Martemucci of Rumford, Cynthia Scribner declined to answer further questions.

"They have denied any criminal activity whatsoever and are telling me that this is a political process going on in town that's gotten way out of hand," Martemucci said.

"Somebody has made some grave misstatements to the law enforcement people. My clients have no gripes with the law enforcement people, at least not yet. But someone has made a rather large false statement. I expect that we will contest this rather vigorously."

Selectman Constance Gagnon also refused to comment on the charges.

"Where this is still pending I don't think I should say anything," Gagnon told The Citizen last week.

According to Holland's affidavit, Gagnon claims that the Scribners-- laid off by selectmen last spring and angry over the use of outside contractors--threatened to kill her and her husband, Albert, and burn their house down during a confrontation at the Gagnons' home on Oct. 19.

Selectman Patricia Lewitt also told police that the couple have threatened town officials since losing their jobs. The Scribners went to Alaska after being laid off and wanted their old jobs back when they returned, Lewitt said.

Selectman Gagnon said last week that the Scribners--employed "intermittently, on an on-call basis,"--did not submit bids for road work this year.

Town officials charge that tensions boiled over on Oct. 18 when the couple confronted Michael Lewitt (a former road commissioner and the selectman's husband) at a work site on Back Street.

The Scribners, arriving on a motorcycle, supposedly threatened him as he oversaw work being done

JOCKO DESERVED BETTER

To the Editor:

Until recently, we have had a "Jocko Graves" on our front lawn. He was given to me on Mother's Day a few years ago, and we have been very fond of our "little black boy."

As so often happens nowadays, someone couldn't stand it, and during the night, broke him and carried him away--leaving just the base and his feet--still set in cement.

WHY? Just plain meanness, racial hatred, just for kicks? I'd really like to know.

Last spring our "little black boy" had a white face one morning. He had been spray-painted. We know who did that, and possibly the same young people are responsible for his disappearance--possibly not.

Why people feel so free to destroy another's personal property is beyond me. They have no respect--no conscience. It's a shame that our society has become such. Want it? Take it--smash it--who cares?

For those who may misinterpret what Jocko really stands for, we offer the following bit of history from Clarice Simmons:

"Have you ever wondered about the statue of a little black boy that stands in people's yards? Did your curiosity make you want to ask the owner who is he or what does he symbolize? The frozen figure of a little black boy statue dressed in his red and white uniform is Jocko Graves.

"During the time of the Revolutionary War, Jocko at the age of 12 left home to be with his father and serve his country. Jocko being a young lad was given the task of caring for horses. In December 1776, General Washington asked for a volunteer to cross the Delaware River ahead of the soldiers to gather horses. Young Jocko volunteered for the job because who would suspect a lone boy?

"Our history books tell us of the great crossing by General Washington and his troops, but little is said about the heroism of Jocko. Jocko gathered the horses and kept them together in spite of the cold, freezing temperature. General Washington saw the band of horses seemingly tied to a stump, but was stunned by the sight of little Jocko who had frozen to death during the cold, bitter night with his fist clenched tightly holding the reins.

"General Washington after becoming president had statues made in Jocko's memory for his act of true heroism."

We are offering a reward for the return of "Jocko." If anyone knows of his whereabouts, won't you please call 824-2687.

MISSSES TOWNS NEWS

To the Editor:

Reading the letter by Brian Hughes in the last Citizen has inspired me to write the letter which I have been planning to write for some time.

I, too, enjoy the paper and look forward to receiving it each week. I have been a subscriber for years, and in years past was a correspondent for the Greenwood Center and Locke Mills news.

For some time I have missed the local news that has been dropped from The Citizen--Gilead, Hunts Corner, Northwest Bethel, and in years past, Rumford Point, Milton, East Milton, North Woodstock (Pinhook), Rowe Hill, Greenwood Center, and I think there were more.

I have noticed that other weekly papers are doing the same. I understand that there are some who are reluctant to give news to their correspondents, but I, for one, miss them. Maybe I'm just plain nosy.

I hope to see more locals and hope The Citizen can retain the ones already being sent in each week.

Mary A. Mills
Locke Mills

(We completely agree. And if anyone in the villages mentioned by Ms. Mills would like to take a turn as a correspondent, please give us a call.--Ed.)

Local election results

By WENDY HANSCOM

Local voter turnout was low last week and followed the state-wide pattern on all six referendum articles.

A referendum imposing term limits on state legislators and other top Maine officials won easily.

And Maine voters overwhelmingly supported an agreement allowing the state to ship its low-level nuclear waste to Texas.

Maine and local voters also approved of the long-term borrowing of nearly $60 million for sewer, landfill and transportation projects.

Local results on state referendum questions were:

- Term limits, Andover, 111-33; Bethel, 326-143; Gilead, 25-8; Greenwood, 81-28; Mason Township, 7-4; Newry, 53-23; Upton, 14-6; West Paris, 144-58 and Woodstock, 148-40.
- Radioactive waste agreement, Andover, 83-59; Bethel, 364-94; Gilead, 25-7; Greenwood, 86-20; Mason Township, 7-4; Newry, 52-23; Upton, 17-4; West Paris, 141-61 and Woodstock, 141-45.
- Landfills closure bond issue, Andover, 70-74; Bethel, 253-205; Gilead, 13-18; Greenwood, 46-65; Mason Township, 3-8; Newry, 38-35; Upton, 15-6; West Paris, 102-98 and Woodstock, 107-77.
- Transportation bond issue, Andover, 82-60; Bethel, 329-136; Gilead, 17-16; Greenwood, 75-32; Mason Township, 4-7; Newry, 57-17; Upton, 13-8; West Paris, 134-69 and Woodstock, 135-51.
- Pollution control bond issue, Andover, 75-65; Bethel, 303-156; Gilead, 15-16; Greenwood, 66-49; Mason Township, 3-8; Newry, 41-32; Upton, 9-12; West Paris, 121-80 and Woodstock, 118-68.
- State parks bond issue, Andover, 107-35; Bethel, 335-131; Gilead, 26-6; Greenwood, 80-25; Mason Township, 6-5; Newry, 44-30; Upton, 13-8; West Paris, 155-49 and Woodstock, 134-50.

Albany results were not available.

by employees of Hadley Excavation of West Paris.

All of these allegations are made in Holland's affidavit, reflecting the police officer's accounts of interviews with people who claim to be witnesses.

The Scribners have not yet had a chance to rebut the charges formally.

Lewitt claims that Jeffrey Scribner tried to provoke a fight with him and repeated his threats to kill the Gagnons as well as other former selectmen, according to Holland's affidavit. Cynthia Scribner also threatened to "tear out (Lewitt's) one good eye" and screamed that she would "see him blind," according to the affidavit.

Workers present at the scene said they did not hear what was said. But one witness told Holland that Jeffrey Scribner was "in Michael Lewitt's face, trying to get him to fight," the affidavit said. Another worker said that he thought the two were going to fight "because of the actions of Mr. Scribner."

Lewitt told Holland that Jeffrey Scribner said he and his wife would kill the Lewitts at their home before killing themselves.

"Jeff (said) that the cops would take a long time getting up there, and by the time they did, it would be all over," Holland wrote. "Mr. Lewitt (said) that he firmly believes that Jeffrey and Cynthia Scribner were going to hurt someone."

Lewitt also said that the Scribners usually have handguns strapped to their waists and carry assault rifles in their truck, according to Holland.

Jeffrey Scribner was charged with one count of terrorizing Lewitt as the result of the incident.

The second confrontation occurred the next day at Gagnons' home, according to police, when police say the Scribners began screaming at another man working for the Gagnons. Constance Gagnon was not at home, but her 69-year-old husband was.

"The Scribners were shouting and calling the Gagnons names, Holland wrote. "Mr. Gagnon also (said) that Cynthia was out of control, screaming so fast that he could not understand her at times because he is along years and his hearing is not that good."

Witness Andrew Aron, who according to Holland's affidavit was chased by the couple, told police that he saw assault rifles in the couple's pickup truck. Cynthia Scribner told him that she was going to "terrorize anyone who took her job; and said that she and her husband were going "to kill Al and Connie and then burn their home down," Holland wrote. "After that they would take their own lives."

Cynthia Scribner went back to the couple's pickup truck and "started tearing it apart . . . punching it and (tearing) the mirror off the door," Aron told Holland.

(Cynthia Scribner told The Citizen last week that the mirror was still on the truck and asked for a reporter to come to Upton and photograph the truck.)

Cynthia Scribner was charged with one count of terrorizing as a result of the incident.

After questioning the Gagnons and Lewitt, Holland met with the Scribners. Cynthia Scribner charged that officials were trying to "blackball" the couple, adding that she and her husband only approached the Gagnons because "she wanted them to leave them alone." Holland wrote.

"Cynthia also stated that only (she) and Jeffrey knew how to do the job," Holland wrote, adding that Jeffrey Scribner then said that the couple wanted the work "and that the jobs were theirs."

Jeffrey Scribner said there was "no reason" the town should not hire them "because everyone else in town don't know what they are doing," Holland wrote. "Jeffrey also (said) that they could go kill (the officials) and then kill themselves but wanted to live . . . and he did not want to spend his life in jail."

Jeffrey Scribner was elected road commissioner in March 1990 for one year and had served intermittently until he was laid off earlier this year, Connie Gagnon said. The position was changed from an elected to an appointed job in 1991. Selectmen have not appointed anyone to the post officially since Scribner was laid off.

mitted disease?"

Bethel Director Merton Brown told the board that during on recent two-month period three out of the most eight deaths he recorded as Bethel's Town Clerk were AIDS related. None of the three deceased, Brown noted later, was a hemophiliac.

But one board member wanted the whole issue quashed now.

"We should kill it now and be done with it," said Woodstock Director T.L. McGee. "I think we would be far better served to pass out English grammar primers than condoms. I think we're failing our students academically, not by not passing out condoms."

A motion to accept the committee's recommendation, for the delay in deciding, passed nearly unanimously, with only McGee in descent.

Condom survey results

The recent survey showed that more than nine out of ten students wanted condoms to be available to high school students, but most of the students didn't want to deal with school staff or their parents in order to get the condoms.

The survey also indicated that nearly nine out of ten Telstar seniors were sexually active.

But only 45 percent said they would go to the school nurse for a condom; 62 percent said they would not ask for a condom if their parents were notified; and 74 percent said they would not ask for a condom if counseling was required first.

Fifty-three percent of the eighth-through twelfth-graders survey indicated they have had a sexual encounter. The breakdown by grade level showed the higher the grade, the more apt the student was to have had a sexual encounter--32 percent of eighth-graders reported sexual encounters, while 86 percent of twelfth-graders reported being sexually active.

Asked how often condoms were used in sexual encounters, 25 percent reported always, 11 percent said never, and 18 percent said sometimes.

And while nearly all the students wanted the district to give high school students condoms, roughly half also thought middle schoolers should be able to get them at their school.

Eighty-six percent of the students reported they could get a condom if they wanted one.

THIS WEEK AT THE
Moses Mason House

Cleo Russell (1881-1958), longtime postmaster of Bethel; Betty Burns Thurston (1884-1959), confidant of William Bingham II; Ethel Bisbee (1895-1972), veteran Bethel teacher; and Pearl Ashby Tibbets (1884-1982), nurse and office manager in her husband's medical practice, writer and community activist were the women discussed in Margaret Joy Tibbets' lecture at the November meeting of the Bethel Historical Society, held Thursday evening in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House.

Each of these women contributed much to Bethel's life during the 20th century; each was determined knowledgeable and very competent in their fields of endeavor.

During the business portion of the meeting, President Charles Raymond announced that the next meeting would be held on Dec. 2 and feature the society's annual "Christmas with the Masons." During the meeting portion of the evening, slides of society activities during the past year will be shown as well as those made of old photographs during 1993.

The "Artifact of the Month" was the judicial robe worn by Bethel judge Enoch Foster while he served on the Maine Supreme Court. Judge Foster once lived in what is today the Bethel Inn's "The Elms." The stacks portion of the Bethel Library was once his law office. This robe was the gift of his descendant Robert Foster of Boothbay. Plans for the Victoria Station project were on display and members were urged to comment on them at the meeting to be held on Nov. 9.

WMNF Monitoring Report

The following are edited excerpts from the White Mountain National Forest 1993 Monitoring Report:

Ecosystem Management

The topic that transcends all individual resource management areas in "ecosystem management." The concept of an ecological approach to multiple use is rapidly evolving. There is and will continue to be much debate on how this concept should be applied to this National Forest. The WMNF has various research organizations and resource managers who are active participants in shaping what ecosystem management will mean. Several ecological inventories and assessments are occurring in New England. When results are available, they will help determine what changes will be needed in the Plan to achieve ecological objectives.

Wildlife Habitat/Even-Aged Management

An ecological approach to multiple use management is embodied throughout the Plan in such subjects as management area prescriptions, the allocation of land to the various management areas, and the standards and guidelines that govern day-to-day activities. One of the most complex of these subjects is the wildlife management strategy--the strategy for preservation and enhancement of the diversity and viability of plant and animal species. This strategy is the focus of interest for many people, especially in regard to how it is implemented through commercial timber harvests and, in particular, clearcutting.

The wildlife strategy focuses on management of the land and vegetation, since management of animal life generally falls under the jurisdiction of the states.

Vegetation is managed for several objectives, such as for animal habitat and the principal tool for vegetative management is timber harvest.

The animal habitat strategy is a complex and far-reaching effort. Its success depends as much on that area of the forest (over half of it) where no timber harvesting is done as it does on the area where timber harvest is our primary tool. In that area which is harvested, its success depends on different kinds and intensities of harvest, the rate of harvest, and the spatial distribution of harvest sites.

With respect to clearcutting, the problem boils down to this: Of the 339 inland animal species in New England, 257 of them have a primary or secondary dependence on a forested habitat. Of these 257 species, 90 percent (233) have a primary or secondary dependence on forest vegetation in the regeneration (0-10 years old) or young (from 10 up to 69 years for some species) age classes. Clearcutting is the vegetative management practice that produces these various age classes of the forest. It's difficult to provide enough of this habitat when the means of doing so is one that so many people find objectionable--clearcutting.

The concern over clearcutting is not new. It existed on this forest before the current Plan and, as a result, the Plan prescribed a lower level of the practice than had occurred in the years before. Some concern continues after the adoption of the Plan. The level at which the practice has been used has declined each year since the Plan was adopted. This means the WMNF is short of the Forest Plan objective for creation of regeneration and young age class habitat and, if the trend continues, it is expected that the result will be a decline in the kinds and numbers of animal species that depend on it.

The WMNF staff has also under them one of the most comprehensive animal population monitoring efforts ever attempted on a national forest. This effort is undertaken with a lot of help from people outside of the Forest Service. This is a complex, costly, and time consuming effort that took much work to develop and implement and which will not begin to yield conclusive results for some years. Preliminary indications, however, seem to confirm the Plan's habitat strategy, including the need for young and regeneration age classes and the role of clearcutting in providing it.

Not everyone agrees with the objective of retaining the present diversity of animal life on the forest, that the type of habitat created by clearcutting is necessary, or that clearcutting is the only or best way to provide it. Some believe that all timber harvesting--and other activities--on the forest should cease so the plant and animal life could revert to some type of "presettlement" condition and that the surrounding private lands (there are few other public lands) should be relied on to provide any "managed" habitat like the young and regeneration age types. Others note that nearby private forest lands are moving steadily into the more mature age classes as less timber is harvested there, that more of the land is being used for residential and commercial purposes, and that the availability and diversity of wildlife habitat is declining on those lands with no effective way to reverse the trend. One can find almost any combination of opinions between those divergent views.

Threatened, Endangered, and Sensitive Species

The peregrine falcon seems to be doing well in its comeback effort and the robins cinquefoil is holding its own in the rocky soil on Mt. Washington. There have been no confirmed reports of either the Canada lynx or the eastern cougar on the forest or of any nesting by the bald eagle. Colonies of an endangered plant, the small whorled pogonia, have been located on the forest for the first time. An effort is underway to identify other places where habitat may be present for the plant and to search there for its presence. This, and other plant inventory work, is being carried out in cooperation with the Maine and New Hampshire Natural Heritage Inventories and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Wildlife in General

Many sources indicate that the population of large animals--moose, deer, and bear--seems to be doing well but the populations of neo-tropical migrant songbirds remains a concern. The problem appears to stem from habitat changes in Central and South America and a regional reduction in young and regeneration age classes in this, their summer range.

Monitoring work is underway on bats and other small mammals, reptiles, and amphibians but it's too early for conclusive findings on populations or trends. WMNF staff are also active partners in the effort to restore the Atlantic salmon to its native habitat.

Timber Management

The market for national forest timber remains strong. The allowable sale quantity established in the Plan was 350 million board feet for the first decade--an average of 35 million board feet annually. Primarily because of budget constraints, volume offered has averaged 29 million board feet per year since the Plan was adopted.

The matter of "below cost" timber sales is an issue in the national arena. From the standpoint of the Plan for the WMNF, however, it is important to keep some things in mind when thinking about the issue: A "timber sale" is designed to provide more than a short-term supply of wood fiber to industry and the eventual consumer. It is designed to provide more than a short-term supply of wood fiber to industry and the eventual consumer. It is designed to provide more than a short-term supply of wood fiber to industry and the eventual consumer. It is designed to provide more than a short-term supply of wood fiber to industry and the eventual consumer.

Visual Quality

Intertwined with the timber management/wildlife habitat issue and with recreational use of the forest is the subject of visual quality. It's something of vital concern since a large number of visitors and the mountainous terrain combine to place most timber harvesting actions in the public eye. WMNF landscape architects are routinely involved in project design and often use computer modeling to analyze visual effects.

Timber harvesting has the potential for creating significant visual impacts. The more intensive the practice, the greater the impact potential. Clearcutting is an intensive timber harvesting practice used to create regeneration age (0-10 years old) vegetative classes for wildlife habitat. WMNF wildlife strategy calls for about 10 percent of the land on which even-aged timber management is permissible to be in the 0-10 year class. There are a few areas on the forest where this goal is being approached. The WMNF staff looked at some of them and was concerned with the overall visual impact resulting from both the extent and design of the harvest units. The result is the cumulative visual impact study being conducted in cooperation with the State University of New York. Some results from the study are expected to be available by the fall of 1994.

Recreation and Wilderness

The WMNF continues to be one of the most heavily used national forests in the system in both developed and dispersed types of recreational activities.

In April, the forest supervisor signed the Record of Decision authorizing expansion of the Loon Mountain Ski Area. The environmental impact statement for this project had been in preparation for several years. His decision has been appealed to the Regional Forester and that ruling is due soon.

Feelings have run high on both side of the issue, some believing that no more National Forest System land should be used for downhill ski area development and some feeling it is one of the best uses for those lands.

National Forest campgrounds are heavily used and late-arriving visitors often find a no-vacancy sign. Budget limitations and heavy use of existing sites have led to focus on maintenance and re-construction at those sites rather than on the new construction discussed in the Forest Plan. Increases in the trail maintenance budget have allowed for a good bit of that much needed work in the past few years. The work done by many cooperating trail clubs and volunteer workers has been important in providing a quality hiking experience.

Addition of the 12,000-acre Caribou-Speckled Wilderness in 1990 raised the total amount of Congressionally designated wilderness on the forest to 114,932 acres. Wilderness implementation schedules have been completed for each Wilderness.

Transportation System

There was significant public concern during preparation of the Plan that too many roads were being constructed, that the roads were being built at too high a standard and that more roads would be opened for public vehicular use. Road construction mileage was reduced by one half in the plan and the construction standards were clarified. Less than half of the miles planned for the first six years of the plan have been constructed. There are also fewer miles of road open to public use by conventional motor vehicles now than there were when the Plan was adopted.

Water

The watershed of the forest continue to provide high quality water. Water quality data has been collected at selected streams for 3-10 years or more, depending on the site. The monitored streams are in municipal watersheds where there is timber harvesting, roads and recreation use and at alpine ski areas. The key to maintaining good water quality is in careful design, layout, and administration of projects.

Soil

As is true with any consumptive use of natural resources, be it coal, oil, metals, or water, the harvest and removal of wood products from the forest will result in some on-site depletion of those resources. In terms of long-term soil productivity, a major concern is nutrient depletion. Timber harvest results in nutrient depletion both directly, through removal of wood products from the site, and indirectly, through the effects of the harvest activity.

The short-term (some hundreds of years) productivity of the soil does not appear to have been significantly diminished as evidenced by vigorous forest re-growth following earlier harvests and the plentiful regeneration after modern-day harvests. Most of the tree species are harvested at ages between 90 and 120 years. The number of such harvest cycles that can be anticipated without witnessing the effects of nutrient depletion is still unknown and will depend on the evolution of natural and human events within the forest and on a far broader scale.

Forest Health

In spite of localized problems over the last decade or so, the health of the trees on the forest is good. The problems include "winter injury" (frozen foliage), normally at the higher elevations, and sporadic outbreaks of defoliating insects, primarily the gypsy moth. "Winter injury" does not normally result in significant mortality although the considerable "dieback" of high elevation spruce in the 1960's may have been due to this problem. The gypsy moth resulted in some severe injury to oak during the 1989-91 outbreak but actual mortality was quite low. The moth also defoliated areas of the northern hardwood type ranging from 20 to 500 acres in size during 1993 but no serious consequences are anticipated from this.

Budget

The forest budget over the past few years has generally totaled about 60 percent of the estimated cost of full forest plan implementation.

Based on current events at the national level, it looks as if the WMNF budget will continue to shrink but it is too early to tell what the effect of that will be on specific resource management areas or the ability to implement the Forest Plan.

From the Bethel Police log:

Bumper cars on Route 26; accidents and arrests

A Locke Mills man reported Monday that while traveling on Route 26 his vehicle had been bumped from behind approximately five times. The car then turned off its lights and passed the man, according to the police report.

In other police news last week: Sunday, police responded to a domestic dispute on Spring Street.

Saturday, a woman reported that her purse had been stolen while she was at the Backstage Restaurant.

Friday, police received a report of a missing black and tan male Huskie, whose name is Bruno.

Friday, a Railroad Street woman complained that young people hanging out on Main Street had verbally harassed her.

Friday, a Gould Academy official reported that a juvenile was seen ripping plants out of pots at a Church Street home.

Arrested last week were: On Nov. 4, Christopher Tyler, 27, of Bethel for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of an intoxicating substance.

On Nov. 5, Erich V. Schneider, 27, of Sedgwick for operating a motor vehicle after suspension of his driver's license.

On Nov. 5, John Taylor, 26, of Bryant Pond for operating a motor vehicle after suspension of his driver's license.

Police also responded to two single-driver accidents last week.

On Nov. 5, Nathan Brown, 22, of Bethel, lost control of his vehicle on a curve in the Grover Hill Road.

Brown hit and snapped a power pole and the vehicle rolled over onto its roof. The car was totalled. Brown was transported to Stephen's Memorial Hospital for treatment of possible neck injuries.

On Nov. 6, Mark Deschene, 19, of Lewiston lost control of his vehicle on Route 26 near the Barker Road.

Damages were estimated at $1,500.

DANGLING OFF BALD MOUNTAIN—Outdoor Skills Leadership Challenge student Sheila Douglass climbs the 80-foot face of Bald Mountain as part of a challenge course offered by Telstar High School's OSLC class and Hurricane Island Outward Bound in Newry. In late October, 25 Telstar students took part in a rocks and ropes course. Another course also included climbing a 60-foot cliff in the rain and fog. Students also completed an Outward Bound high ropes course. The rope course included a series of high wires, a balance beam, swings, jumps and ladders, most 30 feet above ground.

By MARTA CLEMENTS

Approximately 175 children and lots of parents enjoyed our third annual Halloween party.

Special thanks go to Greg and Cheryl Shattenberg, Laurie Newmeyer, Jean Pennington, Shirley Scinto, and to all others who donated time and materials. The children loved it. Many thanks to Nick Curran, an Oxford Hills High School student who entertained with his juggling skills. Also, our thanks and appreciation to Bob Grindler of Rumford, who entertained long lines of children with his balloon creations. Notes of appreciation are being sent to several area businesses who donated lots of prizes. Our school, parents and community are already working together.

However, an invitation is being extended to all community members to meet with us on Wednesday, Nov. 10, at 6:30 p.m. Superintendent Mary Jane McCalmon will lead us in activities designed to obtain our ideas for the future of our schools here in West Paris. Come and be prepared to share with us what you already like about our schools, and also what changes you would like to see as we approach the 21st century.

Perhaps due to exhaustion from the Halloween party, there was a small turnout at our regular, first-Tuesday-of-the-month Parent Volunteer meeting. A few items of business were discussed. Progress is being made on the Christmas Bazaar. If you are interested in renting a table for your own organization, call Dixie Inman (Mrs. Greg).

We still have lots of candy bars left, and will be selling them until they are gone. We viewed a video taken by Mr. Burke at the Halloween party.

Diane Gurney of the Viking Corps at Oxford Hills High School met with us to inform us about their group and what they are doing. The Viking Corps is a group of parents who meet on a regular basis to promote the academic aspect of our high school. They meet on the third Wednesday of every month at 7 p.m. in the Oxford Hills High School library. They welcome all who would like to join with them to promote education. At present they are trying very hard to establish a fund, from which the interest could be used to purchase informational catalogues which list the many various types of scholarships and grants that are available for young people going on to further their education beyond high school.

These catalogues are expensive for individuals to buy, ranging from $25 to $100, and they become outdated within two years. With the cost of higher education today, these books are invaluable and must be made available.

Mrs. Gurney is visiting businesses, parent volunteer groups, and any other groups she can think of to request assistance in this area. If you are interested in joining, or would like to assist financially, you can get in touch with Diane Gurney in care of the Viking Corps, Oxford Hills High School, 250 Main St., South Paris, ME 04281.

The Viking Corps is also a group who are willing to help parents who have questions or problems at the high school and don't know where to turn. It's a group worth checking out.

Mrs. Loper, our first-grade teacher, has received a grant for the second year to be used to promote reading. Her first parent open house for "Books for Maine Children" was held last week.

books and activities to be worked on at home with their children. Mrs. Loper has lots of helpful material available and wants all parents of her first-graders to feel free to participate in this program.

In addition, Mrs. Loper is promoting, and perhaps even writing, in a column called "Teacher Talk" which comes out every other week in the Advertiser Democrat. This column is written by local teachers to help parents help their children develop better reading and writing skills.

The column will also inform parents of programs and changes throughout SAD17. Your suggestions for future columns are welcome. If you have any concerns or questions regarding reading, writing, spelling, grammar, homework, etc., please write them down and send to our school. We will see that they get passed on.

There will be a teacher workshop on Friday, Nov. 12, so the students really do have a very long weekend. There is no school on Nov. 11, Veterans' Day.

School pictures will be taken on Tuesday, Nov. 16.

The Christmas Bazaar will be held on Saturday, Dec. 4, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in our gymnasium.

Congratulations to Abby Inman, an Agnes Gray School fifth-grader. She came the closest in estimating the number of candy corn in the jar at the Halloween party held at the Andrews Funeral Home. Abby won the jar of candy and a Halloween musical bet.

NOTES FROM

Adult Education

A college financial aid seminar for adults and high school students will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 16, at 7 p.m. at Telstar High School in Bethel. The program is free and is co-sponsored by the SAD44 Adult Education program and the Finance Authority of Maine (FAME).

Mia Purcell is the presenter. Topics to be covered are the process of applying for aid, sources of aid, and detailed instruction about the forms involved.

Pre-registration is requested so that the presenter will have sufficient copies of handouts. To register, call the Adult Education office at 824-2780.

Where are they now?

"Where are they now?" - The Adult Education program is especially proud of the progress many of our clients and students are making toward their individual goals. The grapevine has word of the following folks:

Penny Savage, one of the original students in the University of Maine courses at the Telstar site, is enrolled in the nursing program at Central Maine Medical Center.

Chris Bailey is pursuing studies at New Hampshire Technical College in Berlin. Chris, who is in his second year in the water and wastewater treatment technology program, spent a semester honing his skills in math and writing at the Adult Learning Center and completed the CareerSearch program with Adult Education.

Will Talpey is in his first semester at the University of Rochester Medical School. Will made use of the career counseling available through Adult Education in planning his major career change from a teacher of foreign languages at Gould Academy to medical student. This process involved taking prerequisite courses at Bates College.

Mindy Lake, a GED graduate in 1992, is in her second year at Andover College. Mindy also works at the Bethel IGA.

Gert Friel, an Adult Education graduate who has recently been a student at the Learning Center earning a credit in algebra, is now employed as the office manager in Food Services at Sunday River Ski Resort. Gert also graduated from New Hampshire Technical College and worked as a monitor in the computer lab at the Adult Learning Center.

Tyrene Lovejoy and Corinne Hammond, who were regulars at the Learning Center last year doing academic brush-up, are enrolled at Southern Maine Technical College and the University of Maine at Augusta ITV respectively.

Former Learning Center teacher Nancy Merrow has moved to Portland with her family and is working for the Workplace Literacy grant at USM and for Portland Adult Education.

Mark Hindman is enrolled in the Class A truck driving course at NOVA. Mark has been a math student at the Adult Learning Center.

Alice Stevens is in her second semester at Mid-State College. Alice is studying computer science and a variety of office skills. She also attends the Adult Learning Center in Bethel for extra study time.

Gould Academy graduate Matt O'Meara has been named an AP scholar by the College Board in recognition of his exceptional achievement on the college-level Advanced Placement Examinations. Only 11 percent of the 424,000 students who took AP Examinations in May performed at a sufficiently high level to merit such recognition.

The College Board recognizes three levels of achievement--the AP Scholar with Distinction, the AP Scholar with Honor and the AP Scholar. O'Meara, a freshman at Tufts University, qualified for the AP Scholar with Honor Award by earning grades of 3 or above on four or more AP Examinations, with an average exam grade of at least 3.25.

O'Meara is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Meara of Bethel.

So. Woodstock

By ANDREA WING

We are sorry to hear of the death of our neighbor Derwood (Dick) Silver. Dick was a lifetime resident of South Woodstock and will be missed. Our sympathy goes out to his family and all who knew him.

Polly Croteau is in Stephens Memorial Hospital at this writing. Her husband Bob told Andrea that Polly hopes to be released sometime this week.

Andrea Wing went to the Bryant Pond Town Office last Friday and had a flu shot. Hopefully, it will be worth it.

The first snow fell Sunday morning. When we got up it was still on the ground but quickly melted. Many of the cars going during the day had quite a bit of snow on them which had not melted away.

Andrea Wing was at the Woodstock Elementary School Friday afternoon for a short time. There were many goblins and other characters running around school. The Halloween parade had just taken place before she arrived.

Richard and Andrea had only 17 trick or treaters this year. Even though we don't have as many as in the villages, we usually have more than this year. Maybe it was the cold weather.

Larry Billings, curator at Woodstock Historical Society, has given an art book to the historical museum. Larry also says that the museum has a very good furniture collection.

Bryant Pond

By ALICE HOYT

There will be special services at the Bryant Pond Baptist Church on Sunday, November 14, at 3 p.m., and on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the same week the services will be held at 7 p.m. The speaker will be Al Cabral. His theme will be "Spiritual Warfare." A nursery will be provided. Everyone is welcome. These meetings are sponsored by several Bryant Pond area churches. The Historical Society is our special link with the past. The exhibits there tell our story and remind us what has happened in our community over the years. It also offers regular programs on interesting topics. Thanks to the building committee for its work at the historical museum. Entertaining programs are presented at each meeting. Tim Mills will speak on photography at the Historical Society meeting on November 13. The topic will be "Fun with your 35 mm Camera." Research reports are also given. Come and learn. What interests you about history? Let us know.

Larry Billings would like to remind you that he has his own museum called the Crown Museum. Exhibits illustrate fine antiques and our cultural heritage. Most are representative of our area. Larry opens when he is able throughout the year.

Franklin Grange met on Monday, Nov. 1. The next meeting will be on Nov. 15. Please bring your food items for the Thanksgiving basket. Drawing will be held Nov. 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hoyt and Beatrice Farnum have returned from New York. They were called there by the illness and death of Dr. Gerald Hoover, Beth Hoyt's father-in-law.

The Woodstock Extension will meet on Nov. 17 at the Town Conference Room at 10:30 a.m. with a brown bag lunch. The program will be "Craft Sharing on Santa."

Star Birthday Club will meet Wednesday, Nov. 10, at the home of Juanita Allen. Other committee members are Kathleen McAllister and Olive Rysko.

Bethel

Maxine C. Brown, formerly of Bethel, has moved from the ELJANS Boarding Home in Oxford to the Market Square Health Care Center in South Paris. She hopes her many friends will visit her and notice her mailing address change to the Market Square Health Care Center, Room 35, South Paris, ME 04281.

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

A swift drop in temperature came last night and this morning the lawns were white. The air was raw. Our winter has started.

The longer that I live the more my mind dwells upon the beautiful wonder of the earth. I have loved the feel of the grass under my feet and the sound of running water by my side. The hum in the tree tops has always been good music. Most of all the face of fields have often comforted me.

Standing alone on a hillside the stillness is so profound, especially if the sun is setting. The air close at hand seems somehow peculiarly translucent, like glass. Far away a soft mist spreads. A crimson glow falls upon the fields, so recently flooded with streams of liquid gold. The sun falls beyond the horizon and a star is kindled. It is seen trembling in the fiery sea of the sunset.

How nice is autumn, when the woodcocks are flying. The autumn scent is like the smell of wine. The motionless sky gleams peacefully white between the naked branches. The damp earth is springy underfoot. The tall dry grass-blades do not stir and long threads glisten on the whitened grass.

Yellow stems of lifeless leaves rub together in the changing breeze. No longer is there the soft hissing, swishing sound of wind in green fountains of the summer clumps. The voice of the grass has changed. It is thin and dry and harsh and filled with the murmur of complaint.

On a day like today when it's damp and gloomy I have a gallery of landscapes in my memory of things seen that I can take out and enjoy in retrospect almost as much as I did when I tucked them in my mind.

The highlights of the week were the Halloween parties and the little goblins, ghosts and other costumes. One came on skates and one little two-year-old was of great interest dressed as a red devil. Several I could not identify.

At the farm Fay served a delicious dinner. The table was festive in keeping with Halloween.

I saw four ducks this morning, Nov. 1, so a few remain.

Milton Inman is at his camp with others for a week of deer hunting.

The brother of John Betts, Lee, has had surgery on his shoulder and is staying with John until he is better.

North Newry

By GIL SEELEY

Sylvia Wight is recuperating from a bout with pneumonia and is now resting at home. We all wish her a speedy recovery.

The Newry Firemen's Ladies' Auxiliary will meet Nov. 11 at 7 p.m. at the Newry Town Building. A gentle reminder of the food sale on Nov. 20 at the I.G.A. store from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The auxiliary would appreciate any donation of food for the occasion. Contact President Brenda Wight or Nancy Wight. Thank you.

Last week I wrote that Travis and Brian Bachelder, who went to their great uncle Don Bachelder's funeral in Stratton, were from North Newry. They are from Bethel—sorry about that!

Members of the "Newry Bowling Gang" who went to the Oxford Lanes, Rumford, were: Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Bea Lowell and Doris Parent. Of the "Lefties", Karlene was high on the triples and singles with one string of 112. Of the "Righties", Bea was high on the triples and also on the singles with one string of 102. Betsy had one strike and one spare; Karlene had two strikes and two spares; Gil had two spares; Doris had two spares; and Bea had four spares and one strike.

Happy Belated Birthday to Mary Morin on Nov. 3 and our Mothers' Club Secretary-Treasurer Peggy Wight on Nov. 7. "May you dream of all the good times yet to come."

"Special"... People born with the sun in the sign of Scorpio, Oct. 23 to Nov. 22, are creative, generous, perceptive, shrewd, penetrative, persevering, enduring, free thinking, mystical, dynamic, ardent, indomitable and have the gifts for research... But they can also be resentful, stubborn, secretive, suspicious and jealous. They have a great deal of personal magnetism and healing power; they are never shallow. They make great detectives, secret agents and natural leaders.

P.S. People who ridicule the alignments of the planets should take time to study the effects of the planets on earth before making fun of something they are ignorant of...astro or astral—pertaining to or coming from the stars...logy or logic—method of reasoning. (Now that the planet Jupiter is in the sign of Scorpio 'til December 1994, it is a time of new beginnings and fresh opportunities. Good fortune is seen, ambition is strong, popularity, luck and sense of well-being gives these natives self-confidence, material gains are possible...)

"Briefly"—Remember Veterans' Day, Nov. 11. Say a prayer for them; they are the ones who kept us free.

Andover

By KAREN MCKAY

Snowmobilers interested in joining the Snow Valley Sno-Goers are invited to attend their next meeting to be held at the fire station on Saturday, Nov. 13, at 7 p.m.

The Class of 1994 is holding a 20/20 raffle. The winners names will be drawn on Dec. 1. There will be a grand prize of $300; one, $200 prize; one, $100 prize; two, $50 prizes and numerous drawings of $20 winners. Contact Robin Palmer at 392-4801 or Keith Smith at 392-4104 for more information.

The Andover Service Circle has been kind enough to donate the insulation for the water pipes and walls under the vestibule and have also given of their time to clean the windows in the library. The library would like to thank them for their generosity. New books at the library include, "Maine Covered Bridge Finder" by Elwin "Bill" Robertson and Doris Robertson; "Growing up in Maine" by Charles and Samuella Shain; "The Best of New England Humor...Or Pretty Darn Close" by Jim Brunelle; "Creative Costumes for Children (Without Sewing)" by Mark Walker; "Mr. Murder" by Dean Koontz; "Nightmares and Dreams" by Stephen King; "Slow Waltz in Cedar Bend" by Robert James Waller; "Happy are the Peacemakers" by Andrew M. Greeley; "Decider" by Dick Francis; "A Dangerous Fortune" by Ken Follet; "Daisy Fay and the Miracle Man" by Fannie Flagg; "Mrs. Pollifax and the Second Thief" by Dorothy Gilman; "Pronto" by Elmore Leonard; "Finnegan's Week" by Joseph Wambaugh.

Parents of S.A.D. #44 students are reminded that the school cancellation or delay notices are announced on the following radio stations, WWMR Dial 96FM in Rumford, WGAN Dial 560AM in Portland, WFOR Dial 102FM in Portland, and WOXO Dial 92.7FM in Norway. TV Station WCHS Channel 6 will also make announcements beginning at 5:30 a.m., the radio stations usually start theirs by 6 a.m. As of Saturday there were 25 deer tagged at Mills Market. Mr. and Mrs. Keith Farrington and family of Governor's Island, N.Y., were recently in town visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Farrington.

Congregational Church Marge Stinson announced a pack-a-pew for Sunday, Nov. 15. Each class will invite others of all ages. A prize for the largest class will be given. Durwood Maxfield was the guest speaker and came to represent the Gideons, an arm of the local church that distributes bibles in hotels, hospitals and other places.

East Stoneham

By ELEANOR NELSON

Tuesday, Wendy and John Hammond and little Taylor Elizabeth from Windham visited her parents, Albert and Mary Fox, also Iva Fox. John was one of the lucky deer hunters this past week.

Arthur Adams also got a nice deer this past week.

Iva Fox and Linda Allen called on Elaine Legieux one day this week. Sharon McAllister started Monday working at the Fred P. Saunders' daniel mill in Bridgton.

Phyllis Adams and Eleanor Nelson were ballot clerks on Tuesday and reported a small turnout of voters with 52 out of 190 registered people; 145 voted last year. Again this year, Ralph and Harriett Brown brought us in a large hot pizza for our lunch. How nice and thoughtful! Thanks, Ralph and Harriett.

Another thing that has me wondering about is the small attendance at the church. There were only seven people from East Stoneham there last Sunday. Think about it. We need our church and they need our support. Services will be combined with the North Waterford Church for the month of November.

Mr. and Mrs. John Woodbury are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter Jennifer to Richard Ingenito from Pine Beach, N.J. Jennifer is a senior English major at the Ursinus College in Collegeville, Pa., and Richard is a graduate of Ursinus College and employed as laboratory technician for the Ocean County Utilities Authority in Bayville, N.J. A July 9, 1994 wedding is planned.

There were many Halloween parties in the area for the little ghosts and goblins and princesses and clowns, etc. We had 23 callers, and they were winning costumes. I am glad that the temptation of candy is out of the house now.

I was pleased to talk with Elizabeth Tindler today. Elizabeth is the daughter of Jim and Barbara Tindler, and she graduated from Bennington College in Vermont last June with majors in psychology and political science. She will be leaving for London on Tuesday for employment for the next six months.

East Bethel

By NANCY MERCER

Kenny Mason shot a nice four-point buck on Oct. 30, opening day. Verlie and Kenny had the deer tagged, gutted and hung before Kenneth and his son Tony returned home empty-handed from hunting.

Joe, Penny and Jenny Bernier of Lovell visited Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bernier on Oct. 31.

Mrs. Freda Edmonds and Robert Jordan of South Paris visited Arlene Harrington on Oct. 31.

Alder River Grange will hold a regular meeting on Nov. 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the Hall.

There will be a public supper on Nov. 13 at the Grange Hall at 5:30 p.m. Beans, casseroles, salads and pies are the menu. Adults are $5 and children, 12 and under are $2.50.

Elderwood Manor

By FLORENCE HALL

Anne Fox and Gertrude Hutchins went on the bus to Rumford on Wednesday.

Nephew Louis Hall took Florence shopping on Tuesday. He has taken her car to Roxbury for the winter months.

Roberta Learned visited Florence Hall on Thursday.

Louise Powell, Hale and Bernice Wing, Dixfield called on Louise's mother, Alma Hewey, this week.

Anne Fox and Gertrude Hutchins had dinner at the school on Thursday.

Thought of the day: One of the world's most unsightly packages is a person wrapped up in himself.

Violette Bernier and Arline Bernier served as ballot clerks for November election. We had a little contest guessing how many of the 72 registered voters would cast a ballot. The guesses ranged from 15 to 35 with Evelyn Kenny winning on the nose with her guess of 21.

It seems to be normal for a spell of bad weather about election time. This time we received four inches and then seven inches of snow. The roads had to be plowed in spite of the fact that Backstreet was not packed and frozen. Dwellers Hill was slippery, as the sander is in disrepair.

When I went to Bethel Wednesday with several inches of snow on the car roof, Bob Grover asked if it was all fresh or some left from last spring. It could be, Bob, except Mother Nature makes sure we are included in her mosquito, black fly program.

Locke Mills

By CRYSTAL LAKE

On Oct. 21 over 50 ladies from other churches came to have lunch and help on a program at the Locke Mills Union Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Noyes of Wilton came to have dinner with her sister Charlotte Cole on Wednesday, the 27th. The Noyes' will be leaving soon for Zephyrhills, Fla., to spend the winter.

Charlotte sang "Happy Birthday" to Merle Lurvey on Monday at the Lodgeview Nursing Home for his 86th birthday.

Tuesday afternoon Vera Cross and Charlotte Cole visited and sang to Lawrence Mason for his birthday, which was October 23, at the Victorian Villa in Canton.

The Ladies Circle will be having a sale and lunch on Friday, Nov. 19. The sale starts at 10 a.m. and the lunch starts at 11:30 a.m.

Helen Chase and Charlotte Cole did a program at the Dixfield Health Care Center on Friday.

They were invited to a potluck supper at the Mystic Valley Grange in East Dixfield on Friday evening.

Songo Pond

By ALICE KIMBALL

It was good to have the outside temperature rise to the high forties Thursday and melt away the snow which fell on this area Sunday night and Monday causing an hour delay for the school buses and several vehicles to slide off the highway.

Changing the clocks back makes for long evenings now.

Several "trick or treat" callers came on Sunday evening observing the traditional Halloween custom.

Mrs. Dottie Adams was a caller here Tuesday afternoon.

David and Norma Salway recently helped the Bernie Gatchells move from their former home in Auburn to a home they have purchased in Portland.

Norma and David with Kassi and Kaitly attended the Western Maine Class D Championship boys' soccer game in Portland on Saturday which the Wayne boys won five to two.

Happy Anniversary Kassi and Bernie and Happy Birthday Jonathan!

PENLEY SELLS MAHOOSUC REALITY TO KAILEY-HIEBERT—Cindy Kailey-Hiebert recently purchased Mahoosuc Realty from Wendy Penley of Bethel. Penley will stay on as a broker. Kailey-Hiebert grew up in the Bethel area. Her father is a former Gould Academy teacher. Kailey-Hiebert, her husband and three children moved to Bethel from the Hangle area. Kailey-Hiebert spent seven years selling land and commercial and residential properties in Hangle. She said she's prepared to put in long hours selling local properties. Mahoosuc Realty will be open seven days a week 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Friday evenings after Thanksgiving. An open house to meet the new owner will be held at Mahoosuc Realty on Saturday Nov. 13 from 2 to 5 p.m.

R.I. skiers charged with theft by deception

By JOHN VINCENT

Five Rhode Island skiers who tried to pass themselves off as college students to get discounts on season's passes at the Sunday River Ski Resort were arrested by state police last week on misdemeanor charges of theft by deception.

Police made the bust after security personnel at Sunday River did their homework: They decided to find out whether the men really were students and entitled to discounted passes for $295, a savings of $480 each.

The men flunked the test, according to Trooper Don Shead, who said resort employees detained the group on Sunday and called authorities. Shead said he did a little research of his own and found that none of the men attended the college he listed on his pass application.

Police identified those arrested as Raymond S. Merola, 26, Kenneth LaFauci, 25, and Arthur N. Lariviere, all of North Providence; Barry T. Alofson, 27, of Middletown; and Michael Winegard of Newport.

The men presented college letter-heads identifying them as students to ticket sellers, according to police, leading investigators to believe that one of the group either used to be a student or had a relative who was a student.

The scam was unusual, Sunday River Communications Director Skip King said.

"It doesn't happen often, but when it does, we usually catch them. We're very diligent," he said Tuesday. "We don't feel it's fair. People are defrauding other skiers because it costs money to run a ski area. When people do this, they're stealing from other skiers."

DR. KUMAKI JOINS OXFORD HILLS INTERNAL MEDICINE

David Kumaki, M.D. has joined the Active Medical Staff at Stephens Memorial Hospital as the newest member of Oxford Hills Internal Medicine (OHIM). Previously practicing at Gorham Medical Center in Gorham, N.H., Dr. Kumaki has been interested in OHIM since 1986.

Dr. Kumaki's experience includes a year practicing in Nepal, where his wife, Betsy Baird, an anthropologist, was working and studying.

Dr. Kumaki graduated in 1980 from Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons. His postgraduate training took place at Boston City Hospital and at Maine Medical Center in Portland. He is a Fellow of the American College of Physicians, and a Diplomate of the American Board of Internal Medicine.

SWOAM MEETING

The November meeting of SWOAM (Small Woodland Owners of Maine), Western Maine chapter, will be held at the home of Ernest and Alberta Angevine in Bethel on Saturday, Nov. 13, from 9 a.m. until around noon.

The topic will be management of "old growth" white pine, and will consist of a walking tour through part of the Angevine's 196-acre woodlot to tour areas of large, very tall, high quality white pine, some of which has been measured to be over 140 years old. Discussion will center on management of this older growth, when to cut, starting a new stand, economics of old growth management, etc.

The Angevine lot and homestead can be reached by following the Northwest Bethel Road off Route 2 out of Bethel about two miles west.

For more information, call: 836-2778.

AWAP SUPPORT GROUPS

The Abused Women's Advocacy Project is offering a support group for formerly or currently battered women. Support groups help women share experiences and give each other strength and understanding as well as new ideas. This group is free and strictly confidential.

The meetings are held week nights. For more information, please call 369-0750 or the Hot Line number--1-800-559-2927.

HANDS ON RESPONSE TO ABUSE—Safer Families coordinator Lynn Mason accepts a check for $300 from Penny Bohac and Joe Cardello of Mahoosuc Massage. Bohac and Cardello donated part of the proceeds from massages they gave over a three month period last spring. Mahoosuc Massage will also donate $10 to Safer Families for every gift certificate purchased before Christmas. "This shows that the community is responding to the issue in a positive way," Mason said. "All of us own the issue of domestic violence."

News from the The Bethel Library

New books at the Bethel Library: "To the White Sea" by James Dick-ey; "Feather Crowns" by Bobbie Ann Mason; "The Robber Bride" by Margaret Atwood; "Smilla's Sense of Snow" by Peter Hoag; "Live from Golgotha" by Gore Vidal; "Star Flight" by Phyllis Whitney; "Decider" by Dick Francis; "Fortune's Favorites" by Calem McCullough; "Hotel Pastis" by Peter Mayle; "Wouldn't Take Nothing for my Journey Now" by Maya Angelou; "Blue Moon" by Lovanne Rice; "Mother Daughter Revolution" by Elizabeth DeBolt; "Slow Waltz in Cedar Bend" by Robert Waller.

A memorial book was donated by Lorrie and Dick Hoeh in memory of Lorrie's father, Stanley L. Bencina—"Balkan Ghosts" by Robert D. Kaplan. Birthday books donated include "The Gift of Changing Woman" from Steve and Peg Wight in honor of Sara Wight's birthday; "Rocks and Minerals" from Carol and Gerry Parker in honor of Phillip Parker's birthday; "Talking with Artists" from Carol and Gerry Parker in honor of Mary Elizabeth (Litty) Parker's birthday; and "Beauty and the Beast" from Jim and Marilyn Swan in honor of Sarah Swan's birthday.

Remember the "Birthday Book" program for someone special in your family or circle of friends. A donation of $10 ensures that the book of your choice with a bookplate honoring the birthday person becomes a part of the library's permanent collection. This is a special way to benefit the library and give a lasting gift in a child's name.

PLAY ACTING AT GOULD—Cast members Anna Mosca and David Bennett rehearse for the Nov. 12 and 13 performance of "Lovers," at Gould Academy.

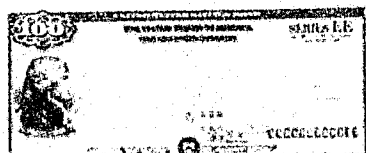

'Lovers' at Gould

"Lovers," a two-act dramatic comedy by Brian Friel, will be presented in Bingham Auditorium on Friday, Nov. 13, and Saturday, Nov. 14. "Lovers" is two separate stories, titled "Winners" and "Losers," and features Gould students David Bennett, Samantha Decker, Anna Mosca and Eric Reppen.

They are supported by students Anna French, Chip Liscombe, Sue Slack, and Dustin Sysko. The technical crew is directed by Vicki Rackliffe and includes Matthew Lemieux, Greg Renna, and Troy Zervoskes. Gould's guitarist and Spanish teacher Doug Allford is director.

Admission is free of charge and the curtain rises at 7:30 p.m.

Your ticket to a secure retirement.

For a recorded message of current rate information, call
1-800-4US BOND
1-800-487-2663

RICK CHARETTE AT GOULD

Singer and songwriter Rick Charette will entertain on Wednesday, Nov. 17, 7 p.m., at Gould Academy's Bingham Auditorium.

Charette has recorded seven albums for children and is currently working on his second concert video, which is scheduled for release next summer.

Charette is a Maine native, who holds undergraduate degrees in English and music education from the University of southern Maine.

Tickets to next Wednesday's concert are available at the Crescent Park School and Preb's in Bethel.

AFTER FIVE CLUB

The Western Maine After 5 Club invites all women to the Festive Feast Supper Party at Goldstreet Restaurant, South Paris, on Nov. 16 at 6:30 p.m.

Patty Berry will share catering tips for holiday gatherings; Cathy Hoy will bring musical entertainment; and Lovely Alexander will tell about changing anger and self-doubt into a brighter outlook.

The cost is $7.50 inclusive, and reservations are necessary. Please call by Nov. 14, Martha at 743-0260, Ginny at 647-5294, or Debby at 836-3763.

A country Christmas in Bethel

Santa Claus will help kick off this year's "Country Christmas in Bethel" parade and celebration on Dec. 4, sponsored by the Bethel Merchants Association.

The parade begins on Main Street at 11 a.m. Holiday theme marchers, scouts, business and civic groups are all welcome to march, according to Christmas Committee member Tom McGinniss.

Area children are also asked to dress up their pets for the parade. Prizes will be awarded to the best dressed furred and feathered friends.

From 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., a taste of Bethel will be offered at the Bethel Inn Conference Center. Several area restaurants will provide samples of their cuisine.

The West Bethel Union Church green sale is from 10 a.m. to noon, and the West Parish Congregational Church will host a craft and food sale.

Village shops will host open houses and serve holiday treats.

A spaghetti supper will be served from 5 to 6 p.m. at the United Methodist Church on Main Street—all-you-can-eat for $5.

Santa will appear again at the 6:30 tree-lighting on the common.

Families can sing along with the United Methodist Church choir from 7:15 to 8:30 p.m. Cocoa, treats and childcare will be available.

Holiday revelers can top off their evening at the Just Imagine Coffeehouse at the Congregational Church. Entertainment begins at 7 p.m.

This year's color theme is green, red and white lights. There may also be a commercial decorating contest, McGinniss said.

For more information, to participate or volunteer call McGinniss at 824-3400.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

At their meeting on Nov. 4 both Post and Unit enjoyed a presentation by three Telsar High School students and their adult adviser. Last June, Kelsey Cross, Sarah Stowell and Eben Smith were among those students who traveled to Newry, Northern Ireland, in an exchange program.

Their counterparts from Northern Ireland visited our area last year. Melinda Remington, who accompanied them on their trip, showed slides from the trip and prompted comments from the students as they were shown. It was explained that the first week there was spent in many outdoor pursuits such as rock climbing and kayaking, somewhat like our Outward Bound programs.

During their second week they lived with families in that area. One comment was that they ate a lot of potatoes in that week. Parents and other relatives attended the meeting and there was a time of questions and answers as well as discussion and comments about the political status of Northern Ireland. Refreshments were served after the program and before the regular business meetings of the Post and Unit.

On Veteran's Day, Nov. 11, members will join the Post in the usual 9 a.m. parade to the Honor Roll in Locke Mills where they will lay a wreath, returning to the Legion Hall on Gore Road for the commemorative program. Coffee and doughnuts will be served.

Martha Stowell and Evanna Davis reported that they had already received quite a bit of response to the articles which had appeared in the local newspapers only in the last two days regarding the purchasing of lights in memory of, or in honor of, veterans. These lights will decorate the two spruce trees at the Legion Hall for the Christmas Holidays. The cost is $2 for each bulb and anyone may purchase as many as they wish. The money will be spent for gifts for nursing home veterans for Christmas.

In other business, a donation was voted for flood victims in the mid-West and plans were made for the Retired Teachers Dinner to be served on Nov. 20.

The next County Council meeting is Nov. 16 at the Mundt-Allen Post in Bethel. The next regular meeting of the Post and Unit is Nov. 18, and members are reminded to bring grocery items for the district food cupboard in Bethel.

UNITED METHODIST WOMEN

Sixteen members of the United Methodist Women met at the church on Thursday, Nov. 5.

Communications included thank-you notes from Albert Buck, David Ojeda and Alex Ojeda and a letter from Maine Handicapped Skiing. Forty-six sick calls were made and a collection of $6.50 was received. Sunshine Chairman Sarah Stevens noted that several had been remembered with gifts during the last month.

Reports were received from committee chairmen for the Fall Fair which will be held at the church on Nov. 12 and 13. Helpers were assigned and baked items for the sale and the tea were requested. It was voted to make monetary donations to Voices and Maine Handicapped Skiing.

Following the business session, Rev. Henry Nickerson spoke on his life and experiences while serving various churches in Maine and Oregon during his ministry.

Refreshments were served by Betty Perkins and Sarah Stevens.

The next meeting will be on Thursday, Dec. 2, at 12:30 p.m. A potluck luncheon will be hosted by the officers, with an exchange of gifts, and secret pals will be revealed.

CLARIFICATION

No connection to Mayville: The owners of the proposed Monk's Inn Restaurant on routes 2/26 will be leasing only the buildings and grounds that housed the former Mayville Tavern. The new restaurant and its owners have no other connection with the defunct Mayville Tavern or its business affairs, according to Monk's Inn owner Bob Scott.

B.S.A. TROOP 565

The Nov. 3 meeting was opened with the Pledge of Allegiance by Fabian Corriveau and Matt Ryerson.

The scouts have received the new five-man tents they bought and are awaiting the chance to use them. They were set up and inspected so there won't be any surprises when it's time to use them.

Some of the scouts and scout leaders enjoyed a weekend camp out at Bog Brook Training Area in Gilead. Some of the events included an obstacle course, hiking and a lot of good food.

The meeting was brought to a close with scout master's minutes by Scoutmaster Mark Wigley.

LEGION BENEFIT BINGO

Jackson-Silver Post #68, Locke Mills, will sponsor a benefit bingo on Sunday, Dec. 5, for Christmas for Families, a non-profit organization to help families in need in the S.A.D. #44 area at a special time of year. The doors open at 11 a.m., game time, 1 p.m. $20 package.

BETHEL WWI AUXILIARY

The Bethel Auxiliary of World War I met Wednesday, Nov. 3, for their monthly meeting at the Legion Hall.

After dinner, the meeting was opened in form by President Elizabeth Foster.

Reports were heard from committees. Cheer cards are sent to the members for birthdays, sickness and Christmas.

The membership chairman reported 100 percent membership. There are 17 members.

Articles were brought to send to Togus. Knit hats, knit slippers, playing cards, toilet articles, puzzles are sent for the veterans. These donations are greatly appreciated. Plans are to send two boxes each year.

It was voted to donate to the Christmas fund at Togus.

It was voted to suspend meetings until April.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Hutchins

In an August 28 outdoor wedding at the home of her grandparents, Kristie Sue Day became the bride of Benjamin Andrew Hutchins. The Rev. Edward Gammon officiated at the 11 a.m. ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Robert and Bonita (Packard) Day, Jr., of New Gloucester. The groom is the son of Martha J. Stowell of Bethel and Richard T. Hutchins of Bradford, Tenn.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a full-length gown of white lace fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, cap sleeves, and empire waistline with buttons down the front. She carried a bouquet of pink and ivory sweetheart roses, enhanced with baby's breath and trailing ivy.

The bride was attended by Stacy Babb, who served as matron of honor, and Gideon Dorman performed the duties of best man. The bride's sister, Abigail Leigh, attended as flower girl.

A reception was held following the ceremony on the grounds of the beautiful lakeside setting of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Day, Sr.'s, estate.

The couple, who make their home in Milton Plantation, are both graduates of Telstar Regional High School. Mrs. Hutchins is a domestic engineer, and Mr. Hutchins is employed by Sunday River Ski Resort.

Obituaries

CYNTHIA W. SNOWE

Cynthia W. Snow, 54, of 27 Park Road, Sunderland, Mass., died Monday morning, Nov. 8, 1993, at home following a lengthy illness.

She was born in Boston, Mass., Jan. 31, 1939, the daughter of Frederick H. and Cynthia W. (Lynch) Woodward. She was educated in Newton schools, and attended the University of Massachusetts in Amherst. For many years she was manager at the Barnside Tavern in Hanover, Mass.; followed by employment at Wearguard Corp., in Norwell, Mass. Most recently she was function coordinator at the Bethel Inn.

She is survived by her mother, Cynthia Lynch Woodward, of Westwood, Mass.; four daughters: Lucy Alman of Sunderland, Mass., Elizabeth Alman of Marshfield, Mass., Susan Alman Quilty of East Falmouth, Mass., and Jennifer Alman Gray of Duxbury, Mass.; one sister, Lucy Woodward of Scituate, Mass. Another sister, Emily Giblin of Danvers, Mass., died in 1991. She also leaves four grandchildren, several nieces and nephews, and many caring friends.

Calling hours will be Wednesday evening, Nov. 10, at the Richardson Funeral Home in Scituate, Mass. A memorial service will be held Thursday, Nov. 11, at 11 a.m. in the First Trinitarian Congregational Church, Scituate, Mass., with a reception following the service.

Donations may be made in her memory to the local chapter of the American Cancer Society.

GORDON M. BILLINGS

Gordon M. Billings, 64, died Wednesday, Nov. 3, 1993, at his home on the Gore Road, Woodstock.

He was born in Rumford on May 4, 1929, the son of Harry and Winola Millett Billings. He attended schools in Milton Plantation and Woodstock. He was a self-employed truck driver, hauling wood and pulp for many years. He was a member of Disabled American Veterans Chapter 11 of Lewiston, and the VFW of Bethel. A Korean War veteran, he served in the United States Air Force from 1947 to 1950. He lived in Woodstock for 43 years, coming from Milton.

Mr. Billings is survived by his wife of Woodstock; his mother of Bethel; two brothers, Lee Billings of Bryant Pond and Scott Billings of Milton; three sisters, Faye Roberts of Bryant Pond, Mrs. Donald (Carolyn) Brown of Florida and Mrs. Gordon (Beverly) Brown of Bryant Pond.

Funeral services were held at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 6, at the Andrews Funeral Home of South Woodstock. Interment was at the Hanover Cemetery, Hanover. In lieu of flowers, donations may be sent in his memory to the MSSPA, P.O. Box 10, South Windham, ME 04062 or the DAV, c/o Jim Wyatt, Togus, ME 04330.

HERBERT E. NICKERSON

Herbert E. Nickerson, 83, of Paradise Road, Bethel, died Friday, Nov. 5, 1993, at the Central Main Medical Center, Lewiston, after a brief illness.

Mr. Nickerson was born in Bath, the son of the late Herbert and Edna Nickerson, Jan. 13, 1910, but had made his home in Bethel for the past 33 years. A chef by profession, he had been associated with Bowdoin College, Hebron Academy, and Gould Academy, from where he retired 22 years ago. During the 1950s he had worked summers, as a chef, at the Chute Homestead in Naples, for many years. During his retirement, Mr. Nickerson was busy as a chef for the Sunday River Inn of Newry, as the assistant manager of the Sudbury Village of Bethel, and was employed at Glidden's I.G.A. of Bethel. A veteran of World War II, serving in the European Theater of operations, Mr. Nickerson attained the rank of Master Sergeant with the 505th M.P. Battalion, U.S. Army. He graduated from Morse High School in 1928. Mr. Nickerson was a member of the American Legion of Bethel, the V.F.W. #9787 of South Paris, and South Paris Lodge #94 AF & AM.

Beside his wife of over 45 years, the former Evelyn Perry, he is survived by a daughter, Linda MacDormand of Hampton, N.H.; a son, George A. Nickerson, with whom he made his home; three grandchildren, Scott E. and Deborah MacDormand, and Kate R. Nickerson, as well as numerous nieces and nephews.

Private services will be held and interment will be in the Riverside Cemetery, Bethel, with the Rev. Henry Nickerson. Arrangements are by the Greenleaf Funeral Home, Vernon St., Bethel.

Loving Memories of

Richard C. Buck

On this day of your birthday, there is not a day goes by, that we don't think of the loss of you. If we knew God was going to take you that day - what would we have said. Now that it is so sad, that you are not here with us. But we know you can see us from above, and we will always think of you.

Sadly missed by your sister Tina & Craig, & Family
